14 ELSIE KATZ MERCEDES BENZ FASHION WEEK FOR 2

Ladies, the Mercedes Benz Fashion Week at Smashbox Studios in Los Angeles is never open to the public (emphasis on “never!”). So this unusual offering affords a rare and wonderful peek into what really happens behind the scenes in the crazy, fabulous, trend-setting world of fashion. With that in mind, Elsie Katz Couture is pleased to provide one lucky winning bidder and guest with entrée into a fashionista’s dream event: Elsie Katz Couture’s Spring 2008 Runway Presentation. Your experience for two begins this summer when designer, Donna Baxter hosts a private viewing at Elsie Katz Couture’s Penthouse Showroom. You will be pampered as each of you are fitted for your own spectacular made-to-measure creation. Then in early October, your couture design will be delivered along with invitations to Elsie Katz’s Spring 2008 Presentation. If that’s not enough, you will also receive a total of $1,000 worth of skin treatments at the Calidora Skin Clinic to get you red carpet ready. Fly first class to L.A. aboard Alaska Airlines. You will stay at the W Hotel Westwood where you will both receive a professional hair and make-up application prior to the runway event. Arrive at the show in style with town car service to and from Smashbox Studios. And after an exciting day at the runway shows, enjoy a private tour of UCLA’s Hammer Museum.

- VIP entrée for two to the Elsie Katz Couture 2008 Spring Runway show

24 ANNA SKIBSKA

Known for her glamorous and glistening glass works, Anna Skibska's process is the direct opposite of what most people imagine about glass art. She doesn't enlist a platoon of helpers in front of a blazing furnace, but rather her primary tool is a simple, pen-sized blowtorch that she uses to fuse glass rods into what critics liken as "ribbons of sharpened poetry" that are "an aesthetic blending of art and architecture" unique in the world. Two Wings is made with transparent grey and sky blue glass rods and ribbons.

27 DALE CHIHULY

Simply put, there is no hotter glass artist in the world today than the Pacific Northwest's own Dale Chihuly. From the canals of Venice to the tropical Fairchild Botanic Garden, from the Chihuly Bridge of Glass in Tacoma to your very own living room, this silver cobalt basket with orange lip wrap is a must have for any serious collector. Chihuly has long been lauded for revolutionizing the Studio Glass movement, expanding the original premise of glass blowing as the province of the solitary artist to encompass the notion of collaborative teams working together in the creative process. All the while Chihuly has kept his focus on establishing blown glass as an accepted vehicle for installation and environmental art without sacrificing the intimacy of the viewing experience. This piece, like most of his work over the past few decades, is marked by intense, vibrant color and subtle linear decoration.

43 CHIHULY BUTTERCUP YELLOW PERSIAN AND LUNCH TOUR FOR 8 OF HIS LAKE UNION BOATHOUSE

Let's start off with the obvious! This is a rare opportunity! Dale Chihuly's Lake Union Boathouse is not open to the general public, but it will be open to you and your seven guests for a special tour and luncheon. The Boathouse sits on scenic Lake Union and, in addition to Dale's works, features a magnificent collection of Northwest baskets and American Indian trade blankets. You will have the opportunity to view Dale's unique lap pool, walk under a spectacular Persian sea form glass ceiling and observe a beautiful saltwater aquarium. In addition, guests may have the opportunity to watch the Chihuly team of glass blowers create artwork in the Studio environment. But best of all is this studio edition Buttercup Yellow Persian, created in 1996. The Persians started out as a search for new forms and, as the art critics say, "combine the delicacy of threaded Venetian glass with the distinctive woven patterns that are the hallmark of Chihuly's baskets and sea forms. But unlike these earlier series, the Persians suggest found treasure." You will also take home a signed, 4-color limited edition intaglio/lithograph with handwork, from Dale's River Reeds series.

- Buttercup Yellow Persian, glass
- River Reeds, four-color intaglio/lithograph with handwork
- Boathouse tour & lunch for eight

Must be scheduled 90 days in advance at a mutually agreed upon time and can be scheduled between 10 am and noon or 1 pm and 3 pm, Monday through Friday. Expires April 21, 2008 and may not be transferred.
