One Bottle of 100-Point 1997 Bryant Family Pritchard Hill Cabernet Sauvignon

One of the few rare vintages to rate a perfect score by Robert Parker, this bottle of 1997 Bryant Family Pritchard Hill Cabernet Sauvignon is, in his words, "one of the most awesome young reds I have ever tasted." A perfectly balanced wine, this "explosively rich, thick, highly extracted Cabernet" should drink well for at least the next two to three decades, and could go down in history as a wine that "redefines greatness" in cabernet sauvignon. So dark in color as to appear almost black, this cab features a seamless texture and incredible intensity (with notes of cassis, black and blueberries infused with espresso, chocolate and licorice), all flawlessly presented in a huge, yet elegant, wine.
